HOTEL

DRYBURGH ABBEY
HOTEL

A truly unique wedding venue
in the heart of the Scottish Borders

WELCOME

A very warm welcome, we are delighted you are considering Dryburgh Abbey Hotel for your Wedding.

Dryburgh is a beautifully restored 19th century country house and estate, situated on the banks of the River Tweed in the breath-taking Scottish Borders countryside. The historic ruins of Dryburgh Abbey itself, Sir Walter Scott's last resting place, are adjacent to the Hotel. Scott's View overlooking the Eildon Hills is a stunning photographic backdrop and only 5 minutes from the hotel.

Dryburgh Abbey Hotel offers a truly idyllic setting for your Wedding Ceremony either outdoors by The Riverside or in the beautifully appointed Abbey or Tweed rooms. The Dryburgh Suite, overlooking the River Tweed accommodates up to 130 guests for your Wedding Breakfast with flexibility to host additional evening guests. The Hotel has 38 comfortable en-suite bedrooms, many with stunning views of the river and estate.

We look forward to welcoming you to Dryburgh where the warmest of Scottish welcomes awaits.
